Signs of Panic

Text messaging Terrorism, when you send a barrage of text messages.
Drunk or Emotional Dialing, phoning repeatedly.
Disagreeing about the split up.
Contacting best freinds and family, which is your not accepting the reason for the break up.
"Accidental" Get-togethers.

Precisely what Should You Do?

It seems counter intuitive simply because it's opposing of your emotions.

Go along with the split up (for now)

Become Calm, Cool, and Okay with it.
Don't perform any of the silly things stated earlier.

Exactly why it gets results?

My father or grandfather introduced me to this particular phrase, "a starving dog does not get fed."
When you see a starved dog, you promptly would like the dog out of your house hold, while your likely to deal with the nicely, groomed and well fed dog.
This works for impressive unconscious motives.
You'll never receive signs your ex wants you back should you keep acting just like the "hungry dog".

Signs Your Ex Wants You Back Continued

People desire whatever they can't get. Quoting David Deangleo "How do you make someone need something? You give it value. You demonstrate people like it. You make it scarce. And then you make them work for it." If your pathetically trying to get back together with your former mate, your fundamentally ensuring they won't desire you back.

It is actually true with

Jobs, it's tough to get one once you don't have one
Money and Credit, financial institutions will loan money to people who have it and Love and Attention

If you've lost it is there still an opportunity?

Absolutely yes!

You still have a chance regardless of whether there are currently signs your ex wants you back.

Here's what you should do

Prepare a short note

Let them know you are all right with the separation now.
Tell him/her that you agree with the decision.

If you did a specific thing "bad" such as an extramarital relationship or cheating, briefly apologize. (If you did practically nothing wrong don't look for an issue to apologize about.)

Tell them something really exciting transpired in your life and you want to tell them about it sometime.

Tell them that you would like to give him or her time to themselves for now.

Lastly close by stating "Perhaps at some point we can be friends."

Don't forget a calm, cool tone!

This sets the position for your next tactics, and pretty soon you'll be seeing signs your ex wants you back.

If you'd like to know more?

Controversial strategies

Has been called Mind Control. For a long period I didn't desire to put out some of this due to the weirdos, but I assume you're an average well-meaning person, just trying to get back with your ex and have good motives.
